

Changes to the CGE Syllabus for the Fifth (2013) Annual Exam

A. Forms

- Under b. and c., for nouns and adjectives, the types are no longer listed, just a reference to check the vocabulary lists. The lists themselves are now separated by part of speech (verb, noun, adjective) but otherwise all together in alphabetical order.
- Under f., prepositions, σύν and ὑπέρ are added.

B. Changes to the vocabulary lists:

The vocabulary list for the old syllabus drew from the high frequency vocabulary based on a Perseus search in 2004. This summer, the Dickinson Classical Commentaries (DCC) published a high frequency vocabulary list which draws on far superior data and uses far more sophisticated analysis. The new vocabulary list on the CGE syllabus brings it in line with the DCC vocabulary. The left column lists vocabulary items on the previous syllabus that were not on the DCC list, and which are now deleted. The right column shows replacements from the DCC list (and which all also occur 30+ times in New Testament). The overall number of vocabulary items is the same.
